LB 114 requires motor vehicle headlights and taillights to be turned on when windshield wipers are in continuous or intermittent use due to precipitation or moisture, including, but not limited to rain, snow, sleet or mist. Persons who violate these provisions are guilty of a Class III misdemeanor. The penalty for conviction is a maximum of three months imprisonment, or a $500 fine, or both.

The bill will likely increase revenue received from fines, if persons are convicted of violating the new provisions regarding the usage of headlights and taillights. The amount of revenue from fines is unknown. Any increase in revenue will accrue to the county where the fine is imposed to be used for the support of public schools.
