Introduction

This LRO Backgrounder—Selected Nebraska Court Fees—was initially introduced in 2013 and updated by this document.

This report provides information about the general filing fees and costs collected by the state’s courts, with particular emphasis on those court fees dedicated to funding specific legislatively authorized programs. We hope the information provides a better understanding of those fees and their uses and helps legislators and staff as they develop policy, research issues, and answer constituent questions.

The Legislative Research Office gratefully acknowledges Eric Asboe of the State Court Administrator’s Office, and Kenneth Boggs of the Legislative Fiscal Office for their contributions to this report.

The Legislative Research Office conducts public policy and legal research for legislators and staff. If you have any questions about this report or any other issue, please contact us at (402) 471-0077 or visit us in Room 1201.

Why this Backgrounder?

The genesis for this Backgrounder was a 2012 research request for information regarding revenue generated by court fees. While gathering information in response to the request, staff from the State Court Administrator's Office noted a common misconception regarding court fees. Most people assume court fees finance operation of the courts. They do not. State and county general funds are predominantly used to finance the day-to-day operation of the courts, while many of the fees collected as court costs finance a wide variety of judicial programs, ranging from law enforcement training to indigent defense to judges' retirement.

This Backgrounder does not answer the question: What does it cost an individual to go to court? And the fees discussed in this report are not the sum total of all fees any one individual might pay when going to court. Court fees attach for specific actions, such as seeking a guardianship or commencing an action in probate. Fees are also charged for such things as making copies of your court case, using credit cards, and paying witnesses. For total court fee costs please visit the State of Nebraska Judicial Branch website's: Filing Fees and Court Costs. Instead, this Backgrounder highlights court fees dedicated to funding specific legislatively authorized programs.

Black's Law Dictionary (12th Edition) defines "court costs" as "[t]he charges or fees taxed by the court, such as filing fees, jury fees, courthouse fees, and reporter fees." Generally, Nebraska's state courts collect fees for filing cases, upon conviction, and under certain circumstances for particular actions (divorces, probate, writs of execution, garnishments, etc.).

An individual appearing before a Nebraska court pays a docket fee, a fee to support the judges' retirement fund, and numerous other fees that are part of one's court costs. The other fees collected by most state courts are the (1) law enforcement improvement fee, (2) court automation fee, (3) legal services fee, (4) indigent defense fee, (5) dispute resolution fee, (6) uniform data analysis fee, (7) Supreme Court education fee, (8) records management fee, and (9) civil legal services fee. Additionally, a crime victim fee is assessed upon conviction.

Following is a brief legislative summary of certain docket fees, the judges' retirement fee, and the "other" specifically listed fees. Each summary includes information regarding the date of enactment, statutory codification, fee amount, disbursement, significant legislative changes, and if available, revenue generated by the fee. The revenue figures were provided by the Legislative Fiscal Office, except for the fees collected for judges' retirement, which were provided by the Public Employees Retirement Board.

Docket Fees

The docket fee can be considered the fee paid to get in the courthouse door. A docket fee is collected in every court except for proceedings brought under the Nebraska Workers' Compensation Act and the Employment Security Law and for filing a petition for a protection order. The amount of the docket fee varies, depending on the court in which the fee is levied and the type of action. Unlike fees that support specific programs, most of the docket fee is deposited into the jurisdictions' general fund. Docket fees collected in the Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals, and the county courts are paid into the state General Fund. Docket fees collected in the district courts and separate juvenile courts go primarily to the general fund of the county where the court is situated. However, a portion is also credited to the state General Fund.

Additionally, a portion of every docket fee is credited to the Nebraska Retirement Fund for Judges (judges' retirement fund). The docket fee has been charged as long as courts have operated in Nebraska. (In that sense, it is the "original" court cost.) In the General Statutes of Nebraska, 1873, the docket fee for both the Supreme Court and the district court was 75 cents. (At that time, the judicial system comprised those two courts, plus a probate court and justice of the peace.)

Purpose: To help pay for judges' retirement. The judges' retirement fund comprises money collected via the judges' retirement fee, a portion of the docket fees collected in the various courts, and a percentage of judges' monthly salaries. As initially enacted in 1955, the judges' retirement system applied to Supreme Court and district court judges. The fee was first collected on each civil cause of action or proceeding in the district courts. In 1957, legislation was passed to include county judges in the retirement system beginning in 1961, and the judges' retirement fee was attached to filings in county courts.

Specific Program Fees

Law Enforcement Improvement Fee

Enacted: Laws 1971, LB 929

Codified at: Neb. Rev. Stat. sec. 81-1429

Amount of fee: $2

Credited To: Law Enforcement Improvement Fund, administered by the Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice (crime commission)

Purpose: To pay the administrative and operational expenses of the Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center and other costs as budgeted by the Legislature for improving law enforcement. LB 929 shifted the then-new law enforcement training center from the administrative control of the Nebraska State Patrol to the crime commission. The fee was not part of LB 929 as initially introduced but was amended into the bill on General File. The bill's sponsor said the idea for paying for police training by assessing a surcharge on "law breakers" came from similar programs in other states, particularly Iowa.

Assessed on: Each criminal proceeding filed in all courts, including traffic infractions and misdemeanors for violations of state law or city or village ordinances. The fee is not collected in any juvenile court proceeding or when determined to be uncollectible, according to Neb. Rev. Stat. sec. 29-2709.

Significant recent legislative changes: Laws 2006, LB 746 removed a termination date and reduced the fee to $1 beginning January 1, 2007; Laws 2009, LB 35 returned the fee to $2.

Court Automation Fee

Enacted: Laws 1993, LB 832

Codified at: Neb. Rev. Stat. sec. 33-107.03

Amount of fee: $8

Credited to: Supreme Court Automation Cash Fund, administered by the State Court Administrator

Purpose: To pay for the automation expenses of the court and probation systems. The court automation project was part of a more comprehensive state plan (enacted via Laws 1989, LB 814) to connect county and state governments electronically. LB 832 set the fee at $3 and contained a termination date of June 30, 1997. While debating the bill, senators said they expected court automation to eventually result in savings for the courts, thus negating the need to collect the fee indefinitely. The fee was terminated as scheduled but was reinstated during the 2002 special session as lawmakers struggled to find money to fund state government operations. The fee created the JUSTICE court database among its projects.

Assessed on: Each case filed in county court, separate juvenile court, and district court, including appeals, and for each appeal and original action filed in the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Specific Program Fees

Significant recent legislative changes: Laws 1997, LB 216 eliminated the fee; Laws 2002, 2nd Sp. Sess., LB 13 reenacted the fee and set it at $6; Laws 2009, LB 35 increased the fee to $8.

Amount of fee: $6.25

Credited to: Legal Aid and Services Fund, administered by the Commission on Public Advocacy (Commission)

Purpose: To provide civil legal services to eligible low-income persons. Pro bono legal services are provided through the Commission on Public Advocacy. The Legislature created the commission in 1995 to relieve counties of some of the costs of paying for indigent defendants charged with murder and other violent crimes. LB 729 expanded the commission's duties to include assistance for low-income defendants in civil cases. The commission certifies grant-eligible service providers to deliver free civil legal services to eligible persons within the providers' service areas.

Assessed on: Each case filed in separate juvenile and district courts, including appeals to those courts, and on each case filed in county court, except those filed in Small Claims Court; and for each appeal and original action filed in the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Significant recent legislative changes: Laws 2016, LB1098 increased the legal services fee from $5.25 to $6.25. Laws 2002, LB 876 increased the fee from $2 to $5; Laws 2005, LB 348 increased the fee from $5 to $5.25.

Specific Program Fees

Purpose: To provide a cash-funded source for the Commission on Public Advocacy to pay for legal services provided to indigent defendants. Before the enactment of LB 760, the commission was primarily supported by General Fund appropriations, although counties that incurred criminal trial expenses paid one-third of the commission's actual cost for defending indigent clients. The commission is now entirely funded by court fees.

Assessed on: Each case filed in county and district court, including appeals to the district court, and each appeal and original action filed in the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Significant recent legislative changes: Laws 2005, LB 348 increased the fee from $2.75 to $3.

Dispute Resolution Fee

Enacted: Laws 2003, LB 760

Codified at: Neb. Rev. Stat. sec. 33-155

Amount of fee: $0.75

Credited to: Dispute Resolution Cash Fund, administered by the State Court Administrator

Purpose: The fee supports the work of the Office of Dispute Resolution. The Legislature created the office in 1991 to provide mediation and dispute resolution services in all 93 counties. Revenue from the fee is dispensed as aid to mediation centers statewide.

Uniform Data Analysis Fee

Enacted: Laws 2003, LB 46

Codified at: Neb. Rev. Stat. sec. 47-633

Amount of fee: $1

Credited to: Community Corrections Uniform Data Analysis Cash Fund, administered by the Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice (Crime Commission)

Purpose: Laws 2003, LB 46 revamped Nebraska's correctional system. Specifically, the bill established a community corrections program to reduce the increasing costs of incarceration. As part of this reform, LB 46 charged the executive director of the Crime Commission with overseeing the development of a uniform crime data analysis system. In its 2011 annual report, the Crime Commission noted the Uniform Data Analysis Fund was being used to provide grants to develop improved case management systems for probation and parole. The fund has also been used to automate pre-sentence investigation reports and create an interface for problem-solving courts (e.g., drug courts) to integrate with the Supreme Court's JUSTICE computer system.

Assessed on: Each case and appeal filed in county, district, and separate juvenile courts and each original action and appeal filed in the Court of Appeals and Supreme Court.

Significant recent legislative changes: None since enactment.
